

Iron County Register

E. D. AKE, Editor.

VOLUME XXIII. NUMBER 17.

IRONTON, : : OCT. 31, 1889.

The State elections occur on Tuesday next.

St. Louis is steadily advancing to the front in the fight for the World's Fair, and the situation is now practically narrowed down to a contest between the Future Great and Gotham.

Senator Vest's illness did not prove so serious as was feared by his friends, and that gentleman is now in Washington preparing to make things warm for the enemy during the coming session.

R. S. Stratton has commenced the publication of the Piedmont Dispatch. The initial number reached our office a couple of weeks since, and gives evidence of fair mechanical and editorial ability. We wish the new brother success.

Mr. Filley doesn't want anything from the Administration. If we are not mistaken, though, Chauncey I. will want something when the next voting time comes, and that will be revenge, which he will be pretty apt to secure with a big "R" attached.

Of the seven federal offices in St. Louis four are now filled by Republicans. The Marshal, Postmaster and Assistant Treasurer are the Democrats holding over and it is said they will soon be succeeded by individuals whose political ideas are more in accord with the "powers that be."

Popular Bluff Citizen: "White and black walnuts in the bottoms are more plentiful this season than for ten years, says an old resident. He also prophesies that the following winter will be the coldest for the same period, and that squirrels will devastate corn fields another year as they have never before in Southeast Missouri."

Oceola Neal has received the appointment of District Attorney for the Western District of Missouri vice E. E. Kimball, deceased. Neal will be remembered as the "original Harrison man" from Missouri, and was an applicant for the attorneyship at the time Mr. Kimball was after the position. In fact it is said and doubtless is true that Mr. K. was successful only because of Neal's voluntary withdrawal, as the President was most favorably disposed to reward the Missourian who headed the break at Chicago a year ago last summer.

Time for Farmers to Revolt.

There are 887 deserted farms in New Hampshire with buildings upon them in a state of repair, or that might easily be made fit for occupancy.—Auburn Gazette.

The number of deserted farms in Massachusetts is not definitely known, but it is very great.

In connection with this matter we refer the farmers to the words of the Democratic platform:

We call the particular attention of the farmers of this State who have borne the heavy burden of high tariff taxation without any of the prosperity promised them, to the relief they will receive through the reduction of customs taxes upon articles which they use or consume.

All farmers, Republicans as well as Democrats, should vote the Democratic ticket this year, if only as a protest against the system which robs them for the benefit of a few protected monopolists.—Boston Globe.

The Reimbursement of the Editors.

When nominations are made the first man appealed to to make a fight on the party nominees from the candidate for president down to the corner is the editor of the town or city paper. "Roll up your sleeves and go for them," is the command, "and we will give you pointers." He does so; he shows them no mercy, whether they be his personal friends or foes, it makes no difference. He sacrifices business interests, everything for the success of his party and when the victory is won and he applies for some modest position, these same men who argued an aggressive fight come around and say: "It would hardly do for you to have this position; you know that a good many of the people are down on you," and they use their influence to secure the place for some fellow who sat in the shade during the heat of the fight, exhibiting hardly enough interest in the contest to come out and vote. The man who expects an Editor to make a fight for his party nominees and at the same time retain the good will of all the people in the community where he resides is a colossal ass and no ought to be fed on sawdust.—Signal.

Shoddy and Cow-Hair.

Messrs. George William Bond & Co. of Boston hold that "it is the bounden duty of the country to remove the duty on carpet wool." "Whether a removal of the duty would affect the price of carpets is uncertain," says Bradstreet's in commenting, "but Mr. Bond points out that 'we should have a wider range in the choice of wools and be able to select better wools than we are sometimes obliged to take, and thus make better carpets.' More wool and better wool, in other words, would result in making carpets, and less cotton, shoddy and cow-hair."

The same argument applies with equal force to every article of manufacture. The raw material of which is taxed. If the honest and skillful manufacturer could buy where he can buy best and cheapest, he would be able to give better value; to compete on the real worth of his goods and to hold his own in the market in spite of competition. He would sell his products on their merits, instead of relying for their sale on acts of congress intended to force people to use them regardless of their merits.

The argument applies to finished products not less than to raw material. If the purchaser of carpets were not prohibited by the Federal tax laws from buying carpets where he can buy them best and cheapest, he would not buy cotton, shoddy and cow-hair carpets. He would buy them all wool and real value—"more carpets and better carpets." Whether the lessening of the tax on carpets would affect the price of good carpets "is uncertain." Perhaps it would not, but there would be a tumble in the cotton, shoddy and cow-hair stuff that people are now forced to buy for wool. Carpets that cost little for the making would not command a price as high as the real value of the best goods. The shoddy and cow-hair corporations would be forced to compete with genuine goods, and both the sellers and buyers of genuine goods would be benefited.

The high taxes on trade have their most marked effect in the protection of frauds of the shoddy and cow-hair order. The laws imposing these taxes thus necessarily are laws for the suppression of fraud and honest trade and for the support of trickery and extortion.—Republic.

Mr. Sim Buckman informs us that, owing to unforeseen circumstances, he will not be able to get away from Iron on his traveling tour, not this winter anyway, and he desires us to tell the public that, in the meantime, he will do all photograph work at greatly reduced prices—and special inducements offered in the way of Cabinets. Work guaranteed to equal in quality any that can be secured in the Southeast. Now is your time to secure a first-class photo at rates not offered many times in the course of a whole life.

Well-Boring and Prospecting.

The Well-Boring and Prospecting Company of St. Louis are now prospecting for iron at Iron Mountain, and while in this vicinity with men, machinery and tools, would be pleased to hear from any one desiring work in their line. They are prepared to bore any depth, for gas, water, coal, or other mineral. Address: A. H. BORSFORD, Iron Mountain.
